ENTRY OF ALLIES INTO PEKIN CONFLICTING REPORTS SENT OUT

One Says There Was A Sharp Conflict and the Other That there Was No Opposition--Legationers All Found To Be Safe.

London, Aug. 18.—[Special Cablegram]—The details of the entry of the allies into Pekin conflict.

A dispatch from Shanghai says that a general attack began on Pekin on the morning of August 15, but the enemy obstinately resisted until night, when Japanese troops demolished the Cham Long and Tong Chi gates and entered the capital. The other troops entered by the Tong Quen gate.

A detachment was immediately sent to the legations, which were found unharmed.

Report No Opposition
Another dispatch to the Telegraph from Shanghai says the allies met no opposition, and were received in a friendly manner by Prince Ching.

All the elements hostile escaped from the city. The imperial court fled to Shen Si on Saturday.

Admiral Bruce cables from Taku the fact of the capture of Pekin.

A Shanghai dispatch of yesterday's date says the recalled British Indian troops are landing there. Seventeen hundred French troops are also being brought from Shanghai to Tonkin. The situation in the Yangtze valley is serious.

Confirmed By Gen. Barry.

Washington, Aug. 18.—[Special Telegram]—Brigadier General Barry, who sailed with the Fifteenth infantry, reports his arrival at Taku. He says Pekin was taken Aug. 15 and that he will go to the front immediately.

Consul Goodnow also cables confirmation of the capture of Pekin. Minister Wu has not yet received official advices.

Dispatches to Conger and Chaffee

Washington, Aug. 18.—[Special Telegram]—Secretary Adee had a conference with the president this morning at which a dispatch was prepared congratulating Conger. Another will be sent to Chaffee containing instructions for future action. The capture of Pekin will, it is believed by the state department, have a decidedly good effect in preventing disorders at Shanghai and elsewhere in China.

HOPPERS STOP A RAILROAD TRAIN

They Cover the Track to the Depth of Several Inches and Prevent the Operation of the Road.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 18.—Yesterday afternoon, between Cressy and Delton, a Chicago, Kalamazoo & Saginaw train was stopped by an army of grasshoppers, which extended for several rods and completely covered the track for several inches. The crushed bodies of the hoppers acted like oil on the rails, the drive wheels of the engine refusing to work until the insects had been shoveled away by the train crew.

For the last week Kalamazoo and vicinity have suffered from a pest of grasshoppers, which is said to be the worst ever known here. Houses and stores have swarmed with the insects and there seems to be no way to get rid of them.

In one restaurant yesterday the serving of meals was discontinued until the large swarm of hoppers could be driven out.

On account of the plague the city has not burned its electric lights for several nights and the stores have closed at 6 o'clock.

The hoppers filled up the arc lamp globes and put the lights out. Some of the insects are three inches long and they sing like locusts.

ODDS ON M'KINLEY OF TEN TO FOUR

New York, Aug. 18.—Over $450,000 is being actively offered in Wall street in odds of 2 1/2 to 1 on the republican ticket. Ed Wasserman has $200,000 of the money, and Bell & Co., generally known as a Tammany house, has $250,000 more of republican money to bet at these odds. There was $10,000, supposedly democratic money, in the street, which was offered at 1 to three on Bryan's election, but no bets were made.

A dispatch from Kansas City states that Joseph B. Bracken, representative there of Schwartz, Dupe & Co., publicly announced the offer of $100,000 at 10 to 4 and said that wagers would be accepted only in large sums. While it had been talked about that there was considerable Bryan money in the hands of Kansas City men which would be placed at odds, none of it was offered.

BRYAN'S PLANS MADE PUBLIC

Democratic Nominee to Spend Next Week Speech-Making.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 18.—Mr. Bryan will devote the greater part of next week to speech making in Nebraska and Kansas. He will make the first of a series of addresses at Wahoo, twenty miles north of Lincoln, on Tuesday afternoon, and will follow this effort with four speeches on Wednesday, all to be delivered in this state.

The first appearance on that date will be at Auburn at 9 a. m., and the second at Tecumseh at 11. From Tecumseh he will drive twenty miles overland to Pawnee, where he is scheduled to appear at 2 o'clock. From Pawnee he will go to Falls City for a night meeting. Thursday afternoon will be given over to the populist notification ceremonies at Topeka.

Returning from Topeka on Friday, Mr. Bryan will speak at Manhattan, Kas., in the forenoon and at Beatrice, Neb., in the afternoon.

RACE RIOTS IN THE STATE OF GEORGIA.

Two Troops of Cavalry and a Company of Foot Guards Patrolling Liberty to Prevent a Clash.

Jessup, Ga., Aug. 18.—Liberty City, two stations below Jessup, and impossible to reach except by a thirty-six mile drive, is at this hour being patrolled by hundreds of armed men, two troops of cavalry, the Liberty Independent and Liberty guards, while men are sending away their women and children to escape the troubles that are expected to break out afresh.

It is another of those race troubles that grew out of the killing of white men by irresponsible negroes, and, as usual, the effect, on the innocent, both white and negro is fearful.

Since the riot's inception, three days ago, two white men and three negroes have been killed, one white man has been seriously wounded by a powder explosion, and last night's rioting culminated in the accidental shooting of Col. James Thomas, a prominent Wayne county politician, who was a member of Sheriff Lyon's rescue posse, the burning of stores at Liberty City and Waltherville and an attempt to wreck a Plant system passenger train No. 78 by negroes, who believed Sheriff Lyon's posse was on board.

Sheriff Lyons returned to Jessup today with his wounded assistants and in an interview said:

The situation in Liberty City is too bad to think about and almost too horrible to tell. The whites and the negroes have got it in for each other, the negroes being against the whites for ambushing and killing Bob Curtis Wednesday last, while the negroes are trying to get revenge on the whites because some of the negroes are being killed.

I left Liberty City yesterday morning, bringing Col. Thomas here for treatment, but I received a telegram telling me that the situation was very grave, and to hold myself and posse in readiness to come in on the first train.

HITS LEADERS OF NEW YORK "400"

Thomas Nelson Page Scathingly Arraigns High Social Circles in the Metropolis and Newport.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 18.—The inner circle of New York and Newport society—the "400" of the late Ward McAllister—was scathingly arraigned by Thomas Nelson Page, the Virginia novelist, in a public address here yesterday afternoon. Its leaders were likened to freaks and malefactors, its life was branded as hollow, and its admirers were styled as un-American sycophants.

The occasion was the annual observance of Concord's Old Home day celebration. Mr. Page, as the orator of the day, took occasion to pay high tribute to the sturdy New England home as one of the bulwarks of the nation, and with this as a contrast inveighed against New York's society leaders.

ROCKFORD GOLFERS HAD A GOOD TIME.

BUT THEY WERE BADLY BEATEN BY SCORE OF 57 TO 7.

Visitors Were Very Much Inspired By the Local Grounds and Club House. Yesterday's Match Was the Social Event of the Golf Season.—Match Between Schaller and Bolton.

The score stood 57 to 7 in yesterday's match between the Sinissippi and Rockford golfers.

The Rockford golfers went home satisfied. They found the Janesville golfers as ready to entertain them, as they were to defeat them in team play. The Rockford players need not feel at all discouraged over their defeat of yesterday. It makes no difference whether the Sinissippi club plays "A" or "B" class men against a visiting team, the visitors are liable to be beaten unless they are "cracker jacks." The distinction between "A" and "B" class players is rather vague, as many of the "B" class men demonstrated yesterday that they would not be out of place in the "A" team.

Too much was expected of the Rockford team, they are mostly new men at the game, their club having been opened this spring and even if they have a professional, they cannot be expected to become first class players in a few months. Many of the Janesville team were not "yearlings" and although it is hinted the score might have been increased, it was not.

The visitors were more than pleased with the home course. They praised the scenery, the natural turf of the fair ground, the quickness of the putting greens, and were surprised to find so fine a course, and that it was kept in such a condition on so small an income.

The recent improvement in the club house also helped to impress the visitors. The walls have been newly tinted, new shades hung in the windows, a window seat added in one side of the large hall. Most of the improvements have been made with the money made by the ladies on the club suppers, the widow seat being the gift of Albert Schaller.

Yesterday's match was the social event of the season, so far. A number of ladies accompanying the Rockford team, and while none of them played round the course, they added much to the pleasure of the day.

At noon luncheon was served by the ladies of the club under the supervision of Mrs. H. G. Carter. The tables were handsomely decorated with flowers, and the elaborate luncheon was enjoyed by all.

J. Stanley Brown, spokesman of the Rockford delegation made a neat speech thanking the Janesville club for its hospitality and assured them that if they would visit Rockford they would be pleased to return the compliment.

The scores in the match are as follows:

	Sinissippi.	Forest City.
J. J. Hall	8	0
G. Forbes	0	0

One of the most interesting matches of the day was between Albert Schaller of the Sinissippi club, and Robert Bolton the professional in the employ of the Forest City club. Bolton won the match by one up. At the end of the first round of nine holes the match was a tie and in the last round the professional succeeded in winning the odd hole. Mr. Schaller played a fine game and did remarkably well in holding the match down to so close a margin.

Movable Postoffices for Troops.
San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 18.—H. W. Robinson, superintendent of the American postal service to be established in China, who, with his assistant, G. M. Hunt, sailed on the Warren, says that the postoffices to be used for the benefit of the United States troops will be portable.

They can be put together or taken apart as readily as camp luggage. At military station No. 1, to be located at Taku, will be kept record of the movement of the troops, so that as good mail dispatch to and from China may be had as in any other part of the world.

Killed in a Kentucky Feud.
Morehead, Ky., Aug. 18.—The Adkins and Howards had a bloody battle in Elliott county, in which one of the Howards was killed and another was shot through the lungs and is expected to die. The difficulty was caused by a quarrel between one of the Howards and one of Lindsay Adkins' sons. After quarreling both went home for reinforcements and brought back other members of their families. Adkins' father, who is a preacher, was also in the fight. All the Adkins have been arrested and are now in the Martinsburg jail.

Edgerton Girl Takes Veil.
On Saturday, August 4, at Sinsinawa Wis., Teresa Rooney took the veil and vows of poverty, chastity and obedience for life. In preparation for this she has been attending St. Clara Academy, at Sinsinawa for the past three years, and in the future she will have a position as teacher in the parochial schools at Portage. Her convent name is Sister Loretta. At St. Clara Academy on Saturday, August 4, there were 26 novices to take the vows and veils for life and 30 postulants. Solemn high mass in the morning by Father Powers assisted by four Dominican priests, and the professions took place in the afternoon.—Edgerton Reporter.

Frank Leslie's For September.

Frank Leslie's popular monthly for September illustrates the possibilities of a Magazine which aim to keep in touch with the serious interests of the more intelligent men and women of today, as well as to amuse every reader by cleverness and variety. The leading article is a personal record of almost unparalleled adventure, written by W. W. Walton, chief quartermaster of our navy, who shared with Lieut. Gilmore, a captivity of more than eight months among the Filipinos. Thrilling as a story, the narrative gives one a new insight into the character of the Filipino people. The much talked of Wu Tingfang, Chinese Minister at Washington, contributes an intelligent paper upon his own people, and this is reinforced by an article telling just the facts about the Boxers which few people know and everybody wants to know.

An instructive article gives an account of the wonderful processes of Uncle Sam's mint, and a highly exciting one by the chief of Uncle Sam's secret service, tells of the greatest "haul" of his career.

In fiction, too, the number is strong, and its variety is shown by the contrast between an entertaining story of Francis Gribble's, "The Princess Who Was Treated Badly," and the "Mission of Corporal Thompson," a story of genuine human feeling.

A second installment of Capt. Robert E. Lee's Personal Recollection of his illustrious father, an interesting chapter in an interesting serial, poems and a store of capital illustrations, complete the number.

HARVESTING NEW TOBACCO CROP

Interest in tobacco matters is now centering chiefly in the harvest of the new crop which is about ready for the curing sheds says the Edgerton Reporter. Quite a little has already been secured in some sections and the harvest is about to become general in the growing districts. The early fields are going into the curing sheds, the soundest leaf that the state has produced. The rains of the week have kept the latter fields coming forward at a satisfactory pace, though the muggy weather that followed has given rise to some fear of rust. So far no damage from hail or severe storms are reported and everywhere the prospects are bright for one of the finest crops the state has ever harvested.

The market is practically bare of transactions in old leaf. A little trading in small lots is the only new feature coming to the surface. A single lot of '99 from first hands is reported, the crop of James Farrington, 74cs, to McIntosh Bros.

The shipments out of storage reach but 500cs, 10 car loads, for the week to all points from this station. About 200 cases of cigar leaf were exported from New York since last report.

Boy Shoots His Brother.
Beloit, Wis., Aug. 18.—William West, a young farmer living near Beloit was badly wounded by being accidentally shot by his 11 year old brother yesterday. He was brought to the Emergency hospital in this city for treatment and hopes are entertained for his recovery.

TESTS PATIENCE.

The Most Patient Janesville Citizen Must Show Annoyance at Times.

Nothing spoils a good disposition, Nothing taxes a man's patience, Like any itchiness of the skin. Itching troubles almost drive you crazy. All day it makes you miserable. All night it keeps you awake. Itch! Itch! Itch! It will no relief. Just the same with Eczema. Can hardly keep from scratching it. You won't do so but you know it makes it worse.

Such miseries are daily decreasing. People are learning they can be cured. Learning the merit of Doan's Ointment.

Plenty of Proof that Doan's Ointment will cure Piles, Eczema or any Itching of the skin. Read the testimony of a Janesville citizen.

Mr. L. Lawrence, of 408 S. Franklin St., engineer at the Janesville Electric Light Co., says: "I tried about everything recommended for itchiness of the skin, but found nothing to give me relief until I started Doan's Ointment at the People's drug store. I had an affection of the skin on my face caused from the burning oil about the engine and dynamo. My face itched and annoyed me, and rubbing it only made it worse and made it sore. I could hardly stand shaving for the skin broke and bled. A few applications of Doan's Ointment removed the itchiness and healed up my face in a few days. I would not be without this remedy in my house, and I certainly recommend it to others in need of such a preparation."

Doan's Ointment is sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Mailed on receipt of price by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

WAS KILLED IN A RAILROAD WRECK.

DEATH OF GEORGE NICHOLS IN AN ACCIDENT AT KAUKAUNA.

He Was One of the Oldest Engineers in the Employ of the Northwestern Company—Formerly Resided in this City—The Burial Will Take Place Here.

Mrs. Ellen Nichols of this city, received a telegram yesterday from her son, L. B. Nichols, stating that her brother-in-law, George Nichols, who formerly resided in this city, had been killed in a railroad wreck at Kaukauna, Wis.

Mr. Nichols was a resident of Milwaukee and was one of the oldest engineers in the employ of the Northwestern company.

The accident happened just as the train was pulling into Kaukauna. The engine, tender, and baggage car was badly wrecked. Nichols was found under the fire door and steam gauge pipe of the engine pinned to the earth; his skull was broken in several places and his body scalded with escaping steam.

The fireman, occupied by jumping when the engineer gave a warning cry. The engine began to leave the track just at the switch, and ran about the length of four cars, bumping along on the tie on one side and plunging up the earth on the other, when the final crash came, overturning both the engine and tender, and tearing the baggage car loose from its truck.

The only other person hurt was Attorney C. E. McMullen of Kaukauna who was in the smoker, and was thrown forward on the next seat in front cutting a gash under his chin which had to be closed by three or four stitches.

The Ashland division wrecking crew engaged in clearing the track of the wreck. The main track, and switch track was blocked, but trains could pass on the other switch.

The body of Engineer Nichols was taken to his home 538 Farwell avenue, Milwaukee last night. The funeral will be held Sunday morning at Milwaukee and the interment will be in this city.

BRYANITES IN ECLIPSE

The democratic press cannot attack the primary election law plank in the republican platform for the very excellent reason that the Wisconsin democratic platforms have declared for that same measure. The democratic campaign in Wisconsin cannot be carried on along "anti" lines. The candidates and principles of the republican party are attack proof. There is nothing to which democracy can "point with pride" and nothing for it to "view with alarm." All it can do is put up its old silver ticket, label it democracy, and wait for the fall to come. Never in the history of Wisconsin, was the Democratic cause so utterly hopeless. Never has the party had so little to offer. The contrast is really painful. The republican gubernatorial candidate is a matchless representative of the people. He is known all over the country as a statesman, a scholar and a man. The platform upon which he stands is composed of solid substantial planks of pure wisdom. In it is embodied the promises of every needed reform, and the preservation of every good law now in operation.

But what of the Bryanites? Have they anything to offer? Any thing to say? The result in Wisconsin is not in doubt. The only question is that of the size of the plurality—and good judges of such matters say the figures will be the largest in the state's history.

Americans set the pace for the world these days. Commenting upon a contributed article on "The Fastest Trains in the World," the London Times says editorially: "If there is one point more than another in which English railways have claimed superiority, it is the speed of its fast trains. Yet the United States and France are now running not one or two, but many faster trains than can be found on our railroads." The editorial then goes into details, dealing especially with the Empire state express and concludes with the inference that "America at any rate has learned to make better locomotives than England."

A friend of the late Senator John James Ingalls thus speaks of the famous Kansan: "Of the many strange characters Kansas has given to the national life, John James Ingalls was the strongest and the weakest, the most brilliant and the most savage—a human collection of wit, biting sarcasm, pyrotechnical oratory, villification and pitiless ridicule. He was too brainy to be obscure, too merciless to be great as men are great who know mercy, too learned to be overwhelmed by foes, too fond of the shafts of irony and denunciation to be master of his enemies."

Mr. Buckley, it will also be noted, was wise enough to provide for the Fourth and Fifth ward statesmen both in the way of nominations and in positions of honor and trust. Evidently Mr. Buckley knows where the democratic sun rises and sets in this town even if he does manage the campaign, and issue his orders from Beloit.

Mr. Buckley, in declining the nomination for district attorney declared that he "refused to be the clown in the circus all the time." Now that Mr. Buckley has become the ringmaster he naturally wants his understudies to play the minor parts.

Now that the envoys are known to be safe, the talented correspondents who sent out the fake massacre reports should be caught, tarred and feathered. A dishonest newspaper correspondent is the ignoblest work of God.

The "anti-imperialists" and the Bryanite friends of the black men in the Philippines, have, however, no words of sympathy for the black men of North Carolina who have been disfranchised by the democratic party.

Constant Reader—Mr. Buckley's convention was not pulled off under Marquis of Queensbury rules, but under the regulations in vogue in catch as catch can wrestling matches.

Shah Spills a Program.

Antwerp, Aug. 18.—Great preparations are being made here to entertain the shah of Persia, but that monarch is not by any means anxious to be overwhelmed with these civic attentions. In conversation with Mr. Coetermans, Persian consul-general here, the shah, who was glancing at the programme for his entertainment, ordered all evening festivities to be omitted. His nerves, he said, had been shattered by the attempt on his life in Paris and he disliked going out in the evening.

Probable Part of Prentice.

Palermo, Aug. 18.—A man who was lurking suspiciously around the court of the palace of Archbishop Celsia was arrested, and charged with intent to kill the archbishop. The prisoner gave the name of Antonio Politi. He carried a dagger exactly like the one used by Lucchese when he killed the Empress of Austria.

Jones to Marry Mrs. Pulsifer.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 18.—Walter Jones, the well known comedian, says it is true that he is engaged to Mrs. Fred Pulsifer of Chicago. He is not ready to announce the date of their nuptials, but says he will do so in proper season.

Oregon Wheat Crop Short.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 18.—The total wheat crop of Oregon, Washington and Idaho for 1900 is estimated at from 22,000,000 to 35,000,000 bushels, a reduction of about 5,000,000 from earlier estimates. The wheat is said to be of very fine quality.

Land for Siberian Immigrants.

The Russian minister of agriculture will print new regulations regarding the allotment of land to immigrants to Siberia. This is a much needed reform. At the same time new rules for the transportation of immigrants over the great Siberian railway will be published. Among these is the allowance of 250,000 rubles for dining cars on all Russian railway lines for the exclusive use of immigrants.—Feodor Romanoff in Chicago Record.

Push Uncomfortable in Hot Weather.

One of the unexplainable things in railroad equipment during the hot weather is the use of heavy plush-covered chairs in the so-called drawing-room cars. Plush is the most uncomfortable covering for chairs that can be selected for hot weather. It collects dirt and it seems to radiate heat.—Exchange.

Baron Von Cohn's Estate.

Baron von Cohn, the court banker of Emperor William I., died recently at Berlin, leaving no will. His fortune amounts to 46,000,000 marks, or $11,500,000 and goes to his only daughter, who is a childless widow.

AUDACIOUS OUTING SUITS.

Some Startling Costumes Worn by Members of the Smart Set.

Every fall the smart set start out with a lot of hunting suits and others calculated to be worn on the mountains as well as a great array of yachting suits. The yachting and mountain suits are all right and generally have a reason for their being, but the hunting suits are more for show than actual use. It looks very sporty to see a lady with a gun, but it should be, and generally is, unloaded.

The newest of the riding habits and the most stylish of them are the divided ones. Many of the most rabid amazons wear these divided skirts and ride their horses as do their husbands. It is such an innovation that it strikes the person that sees it for the first time rather unpleasantly, but it is really a step in the right direction. No matter how good a rider a woman may be, she is never safe sitting sideways on a horse, and anything tending to make her safer on horseback is well.

The fancy for knickerbockers for wheeling is apparently to break out again, and some of the swiftest of the swells are wearing them. The waist is almost always of the shirt waist variety, and the hat is generally of the alpine shape. Some ladies prefer the divided skirt still, and others like the full one, so every one can have what she likes best; but, as I said, the smart set has suddenly pronounced in favor of the knickers. What with the bathing suits and the evening dresses and the knickers, I fancy that this generation will go down to posterity as the most audacious of all the women in history.

For the mere mortals there are some very pretty and modest suits for the wheel, and they are for the most part divided skirts, so arranged that while on the wheel there is no exposure and while off it falls in close folds. Some neat ones are shown made of linen in the heavy crash quality in the natural thread color. Others are made of khaki, but the requirements of the different governments for this special material for uniforms has made this so dear that it is almost out of reach for dresses.

The short jacket is among the new features of the whole of the outing costumes. They are made of almost everything, from linen to covert, according to what the rest of the suit is made of. Strap seams and pearl buttons, with a little braid, form all the trimming. But they are jaunty and stylish. A novelty is the wide sailor collar, which is made so that it can be detached, and it is supposed to be a protection to the shoulders in sudden stress of weather—that is to say, others seem to think so, but I do not see what good a flapping thing like that could do. Still it gives a new effect to the jacket, and that is enough for those who wear them.

The advent of the automobile has created a new need, and naturally something has been supplied. The dust has made it imperative to have a protection for that, and so the coats are long and somewhat in the shape of a raglan, though we also see the regular nister shape, and some are very like a redingote. All, however, are long and intended to cover the whole dress.

At the present time it is more necessary to provide against the dust that flies than cold, and so light alpaca and taffeta and surah are used to develop these garments. These are all arranged so they can be buttoned down to the very bottom and thus the hands are left free, while the dress is protected. As no woman can operate her automobile and hold a parasol, it is necessary to have a hat that will shade the face and yet be pretty. Some wear lovely creations and others seem to glory in exposing their faces to the sun on purpose to get tanned, and in a few months these same women will be spending piles of money to get the tan off.

There are some beautiful hats for riding in this delightful fashion with many fluffy plumes and no end of other delicate things on them, but if it is necessary to wear dust coats to protect the dress it seems to me a plainer hat would be better. Some do wear alpines and others affect sailors, the kind with the bell crowns. These have to be well fastened on.

Tennis as a game has fallen somewhat in public favor since golf has gained such an ascendancy among the smart set, and the dress for that game is now of light and dainty materials, and the maiden who plays tennis can look so sweet and fresh and neat and altogether lovely that she can easily compete with her wind blown and frowsy sister who goes in for golf. Any dress that is short enough not to get in the way is considered suitable for tennis. Dimity, pique, lawns and light silks are all quite suitable for this pretty game. Some made of a combination of plain and figured material are pretty.

Olive Schreiner on Annexation.

Olive Schreiner, who is still so bitter over the South African war as to express a feeling of shame at her English descent, says: "If the republics are annexed, if the Afrikanders are oppressed, peace is impossible. Every trench of Boer dead is a grave of England's honor. Every bullet making a wound also finds a billet in the heart of the empire."

Children in Front of Cars.

The supreme court of New Jersey has decided that the law does not require the street railway companies to give audible warning of the approach of their cars to children playing on the sidewalk. It is enough if the motorman makes every effort to arrest the motion of the car when such children rush from the sidewalk and run directly in front of the car.

Her death was caused by a complication of consumption and heart trouble, with which she had been a sufferer for the past six years, although she had not been seriously ill until a few months ago. She passed away peacefully from the troubles of this world to the unknown beyond the dark river. She had been employed in the Isabel factory and at the button factory, but a larger portion of her time had been spent at home. Her bright, cheerful disposition had made her a general favorite.

Besides her mother she leaves five brothers, James, Charles, George, Will and Chester Clark, George being at present with the United States army in the Philippines, and five sisters, Misses Nellie, Mamie, Ettie, Jessie and Grace Clark.

HALF THE CAR

Extended Over His Land, and He Had It Saved in Two.

Richard H. Woodward, a prominent business man of Newark, was arrested in Jersey City yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief, upon the complaint of Division Superintendent Stewart of the New York Central railroad, says the New York Herald. Some time ago Mr. Woodward sold to the General Refrigerator company three lots on Division street, Jersey City, upon which the company proposes to erect an ice manufacturing plant. A portion of the land is claimed by the West Shore Railroad company, which for some years has had a spur on the property. Mr. Woodward says that the spur was built for his convenience, and that he paid a regular rental for it. The refrigeration company recently began to drive piles for a foundation for its new building, and the railroad company ran a big empty box car out upon the tracks and halted it in the line of the pile driver. About half of the car extended over on the land which Mr. Woodward sold to the company, and he ordered the workmen to saw the car in two and throw off the portion which lapped over. They did so, and Mr. Woodward was arrested and promptly bailed out. Then the railroad company backed a heavy freight engine upon the disputed property, and the work of driving the piles was suspended. The dispute now will be taken to the courts.

The Tripartite Candidate For the Presidency Promises Many Things. The Party of Lincoln Points to Its History.

(Special Washington Letter.)

A combination of the declarations of the Kansas City platform and the personal statements of Mr. Bryan concerning questions of national importance produces a horoscope for the country that its voters will be slow to endorse at the polls in November.

Porto Rico would either be erected into a territory or turned adrift to shift for itself, with a pronounced leaning toward the policy of abandonment. The Republicans are charged with enslaving and impoverishing the island notwithstanding the fact that this year's volume of business there, both in imports and exports, is about 100 per cent larger than it was last year.

Cuba would be abandoned at once. All officials, both civil and military, would be withdrawn, and the Cubans would be told to work out their own future. Furthermore, this country would have to trust to the honor and ability of a government not yet created for repayment of the money loaned and spent for the benefit of that island.

The mutually jealous tribes of the Philippine archipelago would be given a stable native government without the employment of force. How this is to be done is a detail too simple to be explained. The foreign population would look to the Filipinos for protection. The United States, without any rights on land, would use the navy to protect the natives from European aggression and would take their part in European quarrels. It is, worth while to notice also that when the Democracy is talking about the Filipinos it insists that they should be treated as the Cubans are, and when speaking of Cuba it arraigns the conduct of the administration in Cuba as being burdensome, wrong and imperialistic.

It is demanded that the United States take some formal action toward stopping the war in South Africa. How this is to be done is another unimportant detail which the country is asked to leave to the wisdom of the man whom Mr. Bryan may select for secretary of state.

An army of 65,000 or 70,000 men we are told is entirely too large for a little nation of 75,000,000. Less than one soldier for every 1,000 inhabitants is a threat and menace to the perpetuity of free institutions, and we are told that an era of militarism is threatened. The Democratic candidate would protect the country from internal disorder and external aggression with Bryan soldiers' clubs.

The country is told with words of prophetic solemnity that unless Bryan is elected in November there will be no more Fourth of Julys, so it can be seen that the matter is getting serious. Then there is to be a good deal of wiping out all along the line. Trusts and business combinations are to be wiped out, the Dingley tariff is to be wiped out, national banks are to be wiped out, injunction by the courts is to be wiped out and the party of Lincoln is to be wiped out.

No encouragement is to be given to foreign trade. But the cheap products of Europe and Asia, made by cheap labor, are to come into our markets under a tariff for revenue only, not protection, and they will destroy our home industries and make American labor as idle as it was under the Democratic administration of President Cleveland.

These are some of the serious changes promised by the tripartite candidate for the presidency.

The Republican party is the party of Lincoln and Grant, whose work in their respective spheres saved republicanism not alone in America, but for all the world. The rebellion was the crucial test of the ability of a self governing nation to stand the strain of internecine strife. The cost of saving the Union was fearful. The land was hilted with graves, the blood of heroes fattened a hundred battlefields, the nation was exhausted, but the flag was not furled, and not a single star was lost from its azure field. The result, however, was worth all it cost.

It was a struggle for integrity of empire, and yet it was a struggle against imperialism. The triumph of the north made thrones across the sea rock on their old foundations, and some indeed have fallen, while those which still remain have only been able to endure by granting a larger measure of self government to their subjects. Manhood has become a royal thing, due to the efforts of the Republican party to dignify and verify the sovereignty of manhood. Power has drifted down to the masses, who became conscious of their power through the work of such men as Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Harrison and McKinley, who in camp, in battle and in the councils of the nation have made our country the envy of the world. The policy of the Republican party has gone on in advance of the flag, carrying some of the blessings of liberty to peoples and countries who have never seen the banner of glory and freedom. To charge imperialism to the party which was conceived by freemen, was rocked by liberty and grew to vigorous manhood on the strong meat of personal sovereignty is to distort history, deny the truth and betray the fact that the opponents of the party think a falsehood is better than the truth for campaign purposes.

God sits upon the mountains. As a robe
The clouds envelop him, and the sun, abashed,
Slips at his back away. Dependent man!
What hast thou done with this, thy latest day,
Now passing from thee? What have been its

And sum thy thoughts as deeds, for such they

Shaping thy being for its final part
Among the immortals. Hast scarred thy soul
Or fashioned it toward beauty since the dawn?

A SLIGHT COMPLICATION

How a Chicago Man Saved a Girl From an Unfortunate Marriage.

As I was leaving the office Baxter called to me that if I was going to walk home he would go with me. I was going to walk, as I always do on nice days, but I was not anxious for his company. I could not think of anything that would turn him off, however, so I replied, with what heartiness I could summon: "All right. Come along."

The reason for my not wanting him or any one else with me was an absurd one, and I had the grace to be ashamed of myself even while acknowledging its weight. For the last month I had become foolishly in love with a girl I did not know, and the only time I saw her was in the afternoon on Michigan avenue, when I was going back from town and she was coming down. I did not always meet her, but I always hoped to when I left the office, and I liked to be alone when I passed her. Absurd as it may seem, another person always seemed intruding. Therefore I cursed Baxter inwardly and talked business outwardly as we left Jackson boulevard and turned into Michigan avenue.

It was a beautiful autumn afternoon. The grass in the park was still green, and a fresh, exhilarating breeze blew in from the lake. She could certainly not miss such a day for her walk, I argued, and fixed my eyes on the stream of people flowing steadily past me on the walk, trying to catch a glimpse of a trim figure in a gray walking suit.

I had often wondered where she went every afternoon and even planned to follow her, but I was positively timid for once and afraid to make an advance which would give me information about my unknown. Possibly she went to meet and walk back with a lover, a brother or a husband. I was rather inclined to the brother idea, though I don't know why. She did not look married, and why should such a girl care enough for any man to meet him and walk home with him? No, I was convinced that no such fortunate creature existed.

She wore a black hat, tilted over her forehead, and she always gave me a quick, comprehensive look from under it, as we passed. As for me, I fixed my eyes on her and never took them off until she had gone by; it was only by a superhuman effort of will power that I did not turn and stare after her.

We usually met near Twelfth street, but today we had reached Sixteenth and I had given up hope, when I saw her coming toward us. Baxter was telling me some troubles of his, for I believe he mistook my silence for sympathy.

We were nearly opposite to her before Baxter saw her, at the same moment that she saw him. She bowed and smiled—I had never seen her smile before—and just one little corner of that one belonged to me and with it the swiftest of glances that set my heart beating idiotically.

Suddenly I realized that my talkative companion had not spoken a word since his muttered "How do you do?" I looked at him. His face was profoundly gloomy.

"What's the matter?" I asked. I felt good natured enough to talk to any one, and I suddenly conceived a great interest in Baxter. He could tell me who she was—perhaps he the means in time of my meeting her.

"Did you see that girl I bowed to just now?" he said.

"The one in gray? Yes, I noticed her."

"Well, that's she. She's the one."

"What one? Whom are you talking about?" I was at a loss to account for his tone of gloomy emphasis.

"The girl I was telling you about. Funny we should have met her just as I finished. Well, you can see for yourself that she is pretty."

I looked at Jim Baxter in absolute amazement.

"When did you tell me this history you are alluding to?" I spoke calmly, but I was agitated. There was something the matter with one of us, and the effect of my question on Jim showed that there was no question in his mind as to which of us it was.

"When did I tell you? For heaven's sake, Ray, do you mean to tell me that you haven't heard what I've been saying for the last mile? You had better consult a specialist if you are subject to such attacks of mental aberration."

"I didn't hear a word," I said humbly. "To tell the truth, I was thinking so hard on a certain subject that my mind was incapable of taking anything else. Tell me again, and I swear you'll have my undivided attention."

"Thanks, but I won't trouble you. That isn't the sort of story a man cares about dwelling on, you know. And come to think of it, it's better that no one should know about the business anyway."

In vain I assured him of my interest in his affairs, of my desire and ability to help him if he needed help. He would tell me nothing. What an unmitigated fool I had been! I had missed a chance to learn all about her, and I might never get another.

"At least tell me her name," I said finally in desperation.

"Miss Norwood—Ethel Norwood. Why do you want to know her name?"

"Oh, nothing," I said indifferently. "I suppose she goes down town to meet somebody, doesn't she?"

"Yes."

"Her brother, I suppose?"

"Hasn't any brother."

I had gone too far to back out. "Who does she go to meet, then?"

"She goes to walk home with her sister, who studies at the Art institute. And now I should like very much to know if Miss Norwood has aroused your interest merely through her being an acquaintance of mine. That conclusion is flattering, but doubtful."

To walk home with her sister? In a sudden burst of joyful confidence I told him what had been going on inside of me for the last month. I used extravagant language to describe my state of mind. I colored every trivial incident to produce the rose colored effect of romance.

We had reached Twentieth street and stopped on the corner where our ways divided. I looked at Baxter and saw that he was amazed, as I had been a few moments before.

"That's why I wanted to hear your story and also why I didn't hear it—because I've lost the little head I ever had over your Miss Norwood."

"And so it's you!" exclaimed Jim.

"Well, I never!"

"You seem to enjoy being mysterious," I replied, annoyed at another such remark from him. "Is that connected with a story which I am not to be allowed to hear?"

"I'll walk along with you. I suppose you ought to know." We turned into Twentieth street. "What I told you before was simply this: Ethel Norwood is the most ungrateful girl in the world. We've always known each other, went to school together in the beginning, and all that. I never cared for any other girl. Well, last summer she told me that she was engaged to Tom Camp. Know him? He lives in Boston and visited some people here last spring. If there ever was a villain in these commonplace times, he is one. I told Ethel so, and she dared me to prove it. I was in college with him, and I proved something about him even to her satisfaction. She broke her engagement and told me she never could be grateful enough to me. She continued to treat me as though I were the one thing necessary to her happiness until I became convinced that I had only to declare myself to receive my reward for saving her from that fellow. I spoke last night, and she turned me down without asking for time to consider even; said she liked me, though, and thought we were just good friends."

I tried to feel sorry for Jim and say something appropriate, but I couldn't think of anything.

"But the worst of it was that when I asked her if there was any one else she said, 'Well, no; not exactly.' And then she went on and told me that she was very much ashamed of herself, but she believed she was half in love with some one she didn't even know; saw him every day and looked forward to meeting him, and a lot of that sort of stuff. I was disgusted and told her so and that the fellow was probably some one not worthy of tying her shoes. She said she wasn't afraid as long as she had me to rescue her. Then I left, feeling pretty sore. And now it turns out to be you, and you tell me the same thing."

My feelings were indescribable.

"There's only one thing for you to do—be a good fellow, Jim," I said.

"Well, I won't do it," said Jim emphatically.

"Very well; just as you feel about it. We probably have other mutual acquaintances," I replied nonchalantly. "You, being an old family friend, could so easily take me to call, but of course if you don't want to."

"Oh, I suppose I'll have to," groaned Baxter. "She'd make me anyway on some pretext or other after seeing us together."

With this ungracious consent I was satisfied. Inside of a week I had met her. If I had thought her charming on the street, I found her in her own home utterly bewitching. I am waiting for a decent and reasonable length of time to elapse before telling her what she can see if she isn't blind. I am not blind either, and yet I try to remember how mistaken Jim was about her feeling for him and not let myself be too sure.

I am sure, though, that she never looked at Baxter the way she looks at me sometimes when I meet her on the avenue and turn to walk back with her. —Chicago News.

Wellington After Vittoria.

Napoleon was filled with fury at his brother for the results of Vittoria, but he instructed his ministers to say that "a somewhat brisk engagement with the English took place at Vittoria in which both sides lost equally. The French armies, however, carried out the movements in which they were engaged, but the enemy seized about 100 guns which were left without teams at Vittoria, and it is these that the English are trying to pass off as artillery captured on the battlefield."

One of the most important captures of the battle was a mass of documents from the archives of Madrid, including a great part of Napoleon's secret correspondence—an invaluable addition to history.

Napier's summing up of the results of the battle reads:

"Joseph's reign was over; the crown had fallen from his head. And, after years of toils and combats, which had been rather admired than understood, the English general, emerging from the chaos of the peninsula struggle, stood on the summit of the Pyrenees a recognized conqueror. From these lofty pinnacles the clangor of his trumpets pealed clear and loud, and the splendor of his genius appeared as a flaming beacon to warring nations."—Stephen Crane in Lippincott's.

Ordinary Mortals Must Wait.

"Unless you are fortunate enough to have a handle to your name it is a matter of difficulty to travel first class in the land of the Japs," says a globe-trotter. "It is all right when there is no great magnate on board, but otherwise the ordinary mortal must wait for the next boat."

"Wishing to leave a port in a hurry, I once applied for a first class ticket. 'Oh, but you can't go today, for my lord so-and-so is on board. You must wait for a week!' was the answer."

"I insisted, stormed and raged. The end of it was that I had to travel third class—among the coolies. The great lord observed me sitting on a box, uncomfortable, but dignified, and sent a secretary to invite me aft. I was smarting under a sense of outrage and replied that I was obliged, but that I preferred the society of the coolies."

He Knew Him.

The Rev. Dr. John Balcom Shaw told a story about a small boy who belongs to his congregation and lives within a few doors of him. A woman who met the child asked him—after the manner of older people's conversation with children—where he lived. Upon finding that he lived only two doors from the minister's house, she exclaimed with delight: "Why, you must know Dr. Shaw!"

"Sure," answered the small boy. "He goes to our church."—New York Times.
